

Bárbara Contarini is a Brazilian citizen currently living in the state of São Paulo. She graduated in Social Communication (with an emphasis on cinema), and her love of languages then motivated her to work as a translator, mainly of novels and subtitles. Besides her native Portuguese, she speaks English, French and Italian. In addition to translating and learning new languages, she loves photography, travel and animals. She has translated Nick Sweet's 2016 novel, Switch and PACA le petit chien by POKI. She has a personal Facebook page at facebook.com/barbara.contarinibernardes. She is presently translating Our Woman in Jamaica into Portuguese.